OF HISTORICAL INTEREST

CITY HALL PARK

City Hall Park: Main & Winter Street and Crescent Place. Original drill ground of the Militia who repelled the Indians who massacred Col. Rolf in 1708, who bought the little triangle for 50 pounds of Silver in 1700. The town sent its soldiers to the battle of Lexington from this spot and to the Civil War, and the first drafted men for the World's War were given God speed at City Hall 50 feet below. The second meeting house was built here, the first being at Pentucket Cemetery at Mill and Water Street. In 1748 the first bell in the town, imported from London, was hung here and in 1749 the whipping post and stocks were set up.

CITY HALL

City Hall, at the foot of the Park, originally Herrod's Tavern, Mason's Arms, was headquarters of Gen. Geo. Washington on his visit to Haverhill on Nov. 4, 1789. It was rebuilt in 1862. It was gutted by fire in 1887 and rebuilt in the present form. It was dedicated Aug. 6, 1862 and for four years thereafter received a continued and greater Dedication in the patriotic uses to which it was put, Sumner Phillips, Beecher, Chapin and other greater national leaders speaking from its stage. In the main hall all the great actors and actresses of their time were seen and heard Ole Bull, Camilla hrso, Annie Louise, Carey, Adelaide Phillips, Julia Houston West, whose husband managed the playhouse inside, Mrs. Vincent, William Warren, Bret Harte, Mrs. Scott Seddons, and many others. The land came into the possession of Joseph Harrod in 1781 who was Gen. Washington's host. The original town meetings were held in the First Church on the "Common," at no cost but in 1827 the Parish decided to make a change, and in 1847 the first real town hall was built.

HANNAH DUSTIN MONUMENT

Hannah Dustin Monument: In City Hall Park, commemorating the noble deeds of Hannah, the wife of Thomas Dustin, who was driven from his home in the West Parish on March 16, 1697, where his wife with a week old babe in her arms were taken prisoners. The babe was killed against a tree and the mother Hannah was canoed up the Merrimack River to where the Pemmigawassetts River joins it above Concord, N. H. While the Indians slept the night of March 30, Hannah Dustin, with her two captive companions, killed the entire band with their own tomahawks took one of the canoes and made her way back to Haverhill where her name has been sung in song and story and her likeness and the glory of her exploit has been immortalized in imperishable bronze and granite.

REVOLUTIONARY HEROES MEMORIAL

The Daughters of the Revolution Memorial to Revolutionary Heroes, City Hall Park: A huge but plain block of granite on which are inscribed the names of Haverhill's heroes in the Revolutionary War, erected by subscription by the Judith Badger Cogswell Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution.

SPANISH WAR SIX POUNDER

The Spanish American War. Six Pounder: A rapid fire field piece, standing near the Dustin Monument, given to the City by the War Department at the request of the late Congressmen from this district, Major Augustus Peabody Gardner who died of disease while on duty in the World War shortly after resigning his office as Representative of the Sixth Essex District in Congress.

HAVERHILL ACADEMY

The Old Haverhill Academy: Winter Street, a hundred yards from City Hall Park. Now the Manual Training School but once the first High School of the City. The Academy was dedicated in 1827 and became a free high school in 1841.

HIGH SCHOOL

The High School: A beautiful piece of brick architecture on Crescent Place, for years the City's High School, then the Central Ninth, and now the Freshman grade for the new magnificent white brick High School on the corner of Main and Summer Streets opposite from 1700 to 1831 the Successive ministers of the First Parish Church lived here, Rev. John Ralph was massacred at this brick door.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL

The New High School: A magnificent school building on the site of which was the parsonage of the First Parish for over 200 years, at the corner of Main and Summer Streets. MONUMENT "THE THINKER"

The Thinker:—A beautiful bronze model of "El Pensiero" in front of the high school, the tribute of a pupil Mrs. Emma Gale Harris to the memory of a long time master, Joseph A. Shores, from 1856 to 1872.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Haverhill Public Library: One of the best equipped libraries in New England both in books and works of art, on Summer Street between Vestry and Stage Street, noted throughout the country for the quantity and quality of its contents with branches at Bradford and on Washington Sq., presented by the Generosity of the late E. J. M. Hale.

SOLDIERS MONUMENT

Soldiers Monument: Monument Square junction of Kenoza Avenue with Main Street, erected to the men of Haverhill who volunteered in the war of the rebellion, a beautiful marble base duly inscribed, mounting the heroic figure of a soldier standing with arms grounded, about which memorial exercises were held annually on Memorial day, until Haverhill Civil War Veterans were so old, feeble and few, that the simpler exercise of placing flowers and wreaths took their place.

POWDER HOUSE

Powder House: On Golden Hill, a circular building built in 1845, after one had been built in an unknown spot near the Town's centre nearly 100 years before and a second one near the corner of White and Portland Street, then called Powder House Lane, in 1756.

GARRISON HOUSES

Garrison House: Water Street, near the junction of Groveland Street and Lincoln Avenue, a brick structure now standing, probably built about 1724 and then under the Command of Sergeant Webster and eight men. Another earlier Garrison had been built on Pecker's Hill (Broadway) when Sergeant John Haseltine was in command. A third garrison was standing fifty years ago at the corner of Winter and Harrison Streets.

The sites of other garrisons are now marked by tablets placed on the A. H. Adams House on Hilldale Ave., supposed to have been erected by Thomas Duston, husband of Hannah, on the height of land about 75 yards north of Broadway, top of Pecker's Hill, home of Onesiphorous Marsh erected in 1684, and commanded by Sergeant John Haseltine, 1690; garrison commanded by John Webster, 1690, about three quarters of a mile east of Haverhill bridge, between Mill street and Kenoza Avenue, where an old house now stands, commanded by James Ayer, 1690; on Kenoza Avenue, on the house once used as Children's Home, home of Capt. Samuel Ayer, killed by the Indians, August 29, 1708; on Mill Street near the Cemetery, garrison commanded by Capt. John White; on the Heath Place, North Broadway, from which Hannah the wife of Joseph Bradley was captured by the Indians Feb. 8, 1704, and the old brick house in the East Parish, opposite the present Kimball place built from bricks brought from England, prior to 1690.

BENJAMIN GREENLEAF

Birthplace of Benjamin Greenleaf the Arithmatician, marked by a tablet on the road leading off Broadway to the Jesse Smith place.

THE BUTTONWOODS

The Buttonwoods: Formerly the home of Nathaniel Saltonstall and his descendants (1663-1707) until the revolution, later the home of Mrs. Samuel W. Duncan, now of the Haverhill Historical Society, where there is a large and most interesting display of antique furniture, books, relics, bric-a-brac. Open daily to visitors.

MILL BROOK

Mill Brook: Once at the foot of Mill Street, flowing across what is now Water street, where was located the first tannery, by Job Clement, 1643, the first fulling mill, by John White, 1706; the first distillery by James McHard, 1738; first pot and pearlsh work by Samuel Blodgett, 1759, and the first Salt works by James Hudson, 1769.

OLD BURYING GROUND

Old Burying Ground: Site of First meeting House of Haverhill (just inside gate to Pentucket Cemetery), 1648-1699, and of first School and Watch House, erected in 1670. Here lie the remains of most of the earlier settlers of Haverhill, and many of their descendants.

MEETING HOUSES

Early Meeting Houses: The second was on the present common, as was the third, while the fourth is on the present site of the first Unitarian Church at Main Street and Crescent Place. The First Baptist Church was on the present site of the Academy of Music, 1765-1883 when the last structure, with its imposing spire, erected in 1848, was torn down and the present business office and roomings block, and theatre, was erected.

First Parish Meeting House, East Parish, Middle Road, erected in 1744, present building erected in 1838, the parsonage was directly opposite. Rev. Benjamin Parker was the first minister.

First Meeting House, West Parish: Erected in 1734, Junction of Broadway and Monument Streets. Site of Old South Church, where the Hotel Nichols (Webster House) now stands, at the corner of Washington and Essex streets.

First Meeting House, North Parish, erected in 1728; present structure erected in 1837, now stands in the North Parish, just over the New Hampshire line. Home of the first minister, Rev. James Cushing, stood nearby, but this side of the line, 1730-1764, and of Rev. Gyles Merrill, 1765-1801, the present Gyles Merrill house.

WASHINGTON TABLET

Washington Tablet: A huge block of granite, marking Washington Sq., named for Gen. Geo. Washington who visited and admired the Spot on Nov. 4, 1789. The Pentucket tribe of Indians had their village near this spot in 1640, and gave their deed to the white settlers, 1642, bounding their grant to eight miles westward, six miles eastward and six miles northward. Here also was the mouth of Little River and the site of the first fish weir.

THE ROLFE MASSACRE

The Rolfe Massacre: Stone at Summer and Main Streets marking the killing by Indians of Benjamin Rolfe, the second minister to Haverhill, his wife, and one child, together with 3 soldiers, Aug. 29, 1708, in front of new high school.

Home of First Fire Chief: Capt. Cornelius Mansese, where formerly stood Lincoln Hall, now the Haverhill Savings Bank Building, corner of West and Merrimack Streets.

Elm Corner: Home of Isaac Osgood, 1752-1791, site of Aseph Kendall's tavern, 1800-1825, northeast corner of Main and Water Streets.

The first Clay Pitts: John Hoitt, owner, the first brick maker, 1650, later owned by Jonathan Sargent, who made bricks for the public library and many of the more important buildings of Haverhill.

Golden Ball Tavern: 1823-1843, the home of "Merchant" John White, 1766-1800, Harriet West House on Water Street next building but one west of Stage Street.

First Post Office: Home of Symonds Greenough, first Postmaster 1775, northwest corner of Moore and Water Streets.

Home of First Baptist Minister: Present site of Abbott building next east of the Daggett building, 1765-1805, Rev. Hezekiah Smith.

First Duck Factory, visited by Gen. Washington, 1789, westerly side of Kent street, third building north of Water Street.

Ancestral Home of White family, erected by the first William White, 1680, and still in the family, westerly side of Mill street, below Park Street.

Sites of Famous old Ship Yards: Once the Merrimack River was alive with shipping and with fish. The yard of David Webster was on the library, home of Thomas H. West, southerly side of Water Street, opposite Mill Street, that of John Kendrick was on the river bank opposite the foot of How street; that of Barnard Goodrich was on the southerly side of Water, opposite the Aetna House where Otis L. Moore now builds motor crafts.

Old Eagle House, on Main Street, corner of Elm Court, once the home of James Duncan, Jr., 1804 to 1819. This was a famous Massachusetts hostelry.

First Hat Factory: Home of John Ayer, who began the manufacture of hats in the West Parish in 1786, and with his four sons, gave name to Ayers Village where is now the Adams House in that suburb.

Site of Old Distillery: Site of the present Kittredge Block just east of the former Gazette office.

The Dr. Nathaniel Saltonstall House one of the early show houses of Haverhill, originally on Merrimack Street about 100 yards west of Fleet Street, later removed to the shores of Lake Saltonstall as the home of late William G. How, father of the late Guerdon G. How and still later the home of Robert S. Gordon who sold it in such a way that it was torn down.

Home of Joseph Haynes: The Richard Webster House, 1715-1803, Lowell Avenue.

Enoch Bradley's Tavern 1800, house at Mitchell's Falls, erected by Joseph Lufkin about 1750.

Home of Moses Wingate: Stood just back of the Broadway School, foot of Pecker's Hill, erected by Joseph Bradley, prior to 1690. His son, Rev. Charles Wingate sold practically all of the hill land nearby to maintain St. John's Church and Parish which was sold to a Greek Religious society after his death when the parish church moved to a new building at the junction of Main and Sheridan streets. The original mission church was built in memory of Moses Wingate in 1875.

Site of old School House of First Parish, removed when old High School, (Freshman grade) was erected in 1874, Crescent Place.

Site of First Engine House rear of the Fletcher House on the southerly side of Water street, about where the old Hook and Ladder House now is.

First Bank Building: The Merrimack Bank, westerly corner of Water and Stage Street, erected in 1814 and still standing.

Birthplace of Gen. Witham F. Bartlett, June 6, 1840, the Hiram Feaslee Block, opposite the public library, home of Thomas H. West, 1828-1848, president of the Boston and Maine Railway, Haverhill Bank, and Methuen Company, Kenoza Avenue, at the old T. H. West estate.

Home of Deacon Marsh, 1728 to 1777, what was last the home of Rev. G. W. Kelly and his descendants, on the easterly side of Main Street, next above the Centre Church.

Gile Homestead: Settled by Samuel Gile, 1640, next house on the left, this side of Kenoza trotting park.

Peckers Hill: Broadway from Lafayette Square, formerly Sargent's Square, named for Samuel Pecker whose home was about half way up the hill.

HOSPITALS AND INFIRMARIES.

Hale Hospital: Off Water Street, below Mill Street. Originally endowed by the late E. J. M. Hale, Haverhill's first millionaire, and now supported jointly by his endowment and the City. One of the most perfectly equipped hospitals of its size in New England. Has maternity ward where has been done wonderful work through the interest and financial help afforded by the Hon. J. Otis Wardwell and Mrs. Wardwell. A Contagious Hospital and nurses home are connected.

Gale Hospital: Formerly the Children's Home, bought by the late Hon. John E. Gale of the Gale Shoe Co. and presented to the City which has recently caused to be erected a nurses home in connection with it.

Tuberculosis Hospital: On Boardman Street, formerly the Barnes Farm, where its splendid Southern exposure, with the protecting hill to the North, is especially valuable to its many patients. The physician in charge is a noted expert on tuberculosis, Dr. I. J. Clarke.

Haverhill City Infirmary: For the City's poor, at City Farm between Lincoln Avenue and Groveland Street formerly the City Hospital, where not only the inmates of the farm are cared for but many outside patients. The service given is under the direction of the City Physician and is of the highest order.

The Morris Home: A private sanitarium for invalids and convalescents, on Cogswell Street, Bradford District, near the Catholic Church.

MISCELLANEOUS MODERN ACTIVITIES AND PLACES OF INTEREST.

Young Women's Home, Winter Street, opposite Pecker. A comfortable and commodious home, lodging and boarding house for Bachelor girls, especially strangers in the City.

Old Ladies Home: Main Street, near Howard. One of the best homes for aged women in the entire country where the best of care is combined with perfect freedom of action, supported mainly by endowment funds.

The Day Nursery: Pecker Street, at the corner of Henry. A resort for the infant children for working motheres who are cared for during the day by a competent matron and staff of nurses. Supported by the efforts of the Young Women's Christian Association and private subscriptions.

Christian Science Reading Room: Hotel Bartlett, opposite City Hall Park, open daily from 2:30 to 4:30.

Christian Science Church: A small but attractive building in the rear of the Elks Club, Newcomb Street, with regular services every Wednesday evening at 7:30 and every Sunday at 10:30.

BRADFORD ACADEMY

Bradford Academy: Main Street, Bradford District, at Kingsbury Ave., A magnificent brick building, set in beautiful surroundings, and the oldest institution in New England for the higher education of women, founded in 1803 by the parishioners of the Congregational Church of Bradford, then a separate town. Until long after Bradford Academy had begun its usefulness there was not a public Latin or High School in the country open to girls, and the earliest college in the country to admit women. Oberlin did not come into existence until 1833. It has educated 7000 women, over 4000 of whom are living, from all parts of the world. It attained its highest standard of development, which it has maintained ever since, under Benjamin Greenleaf from 1814 to 1836. His works on mathematical subjects, arithmetic, algebra geometry and trigonometry, have ever since been standard text books in all English speaking lands.

WINNEKENNI PARK

Winnekenni Park: Comprising the entire water shed about Kenosza Lake the site of Winnikenni Castle, the replica of a famous English manor house, built by the late Dr. Stewart Webb. Has well kept gardens, woods and walks for visitors, play grounds and tennis courts. The Dudley Porter Road is a famous walk about the lake, on which is a memorial seat and fountain in honor of the late Dudley Porter, a former member of the Park Board.

Haverhill Stadium: Lincoln Ave. of land of the City Farm. A concrete enclosed foot ball field, erected by Public Subscription and turned over to the City by the High School Athletic Association, said to be the best field in New England outside the college towns.

Chamber of Commerce: Haverhill Bank Building, corner of Merrimack and Emerson Streets. Open daily from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Will furnish all kinds of business and transportation information to the stranger visiting the City.

Y. M. C. A. Just North of City Hall Park on Main Street, containing reading and social rooms, basket ball rink, gymnasium, swimming pool, rooming quarters in a separate building, and all kinds of opportunities for mental and physical development, was once the home of the late E. J. M. Hale, Haverhill's first millionaire and son of the first owner of Pentucket Mills on Winter Street, erected in 1835.

Haverhill Credit Bureau: 25 Washington Square. One of the best equipped and informed in the State, in possession of a wealth of credit, business and civic information, which is supplied to regular subscribers at a most moderate fee.

Haverhill Post Office: Washington Square next to Memorial Park, Washington Square, open daily except Sunday, from 7 A. M. to 8 P. M. and provided with an adequate night force for the dispatch of mail, also headquarters for all federal officers having business in the city. The land was originally given to Rev. John Ward as pasture land and until sold to United States in 1892 no deed for it had passed for more than 200 years.

WHITTIER HOMESTEAD

Whittier Homestead: Amesbury Road, three miles from Washington Square. Open to visitors daily, most of the noted poet's home furniture has been restored to the old building in which he wrote his greatest poems. Built by Thomas Whittier in 1688. The poet was born here Dec. 17.

The Kenosza Club: The ruins of an old stone building on the north east shore of Kenosza Lake, the rendezvous of the leading men of the City "chowder parties" fifty years ago.

Silver Hill: One of the larger hills between the Sea and the Uncanoonac's northwest of Manchester, N. H. northwest of Washington Street, and the site of Tilton's tower, a brick obolisk, erected by the late John C. Tilton, commanding a view to Boston and the Sea.

Slocumn's Tavern: About the corner of Merrimack and Fleet Street, which between 1818 and 1835, up to the coming of the Railway, kept 40 horses and two yokes of oxen constantly moving between this city and Boston, carrying freight. In one day in 1836 he had full loads for 41 horses and 8 oxen.

FAMOUS ICE GORGE

Famous Ice Gorge of The Merrimac: March 15, 1846, the ice breaking up in the river had formed a dam at Bradleys Falls, about a mile and a half above Washington Square, 20 feet high. This suddenly gave way and the huge mass of water swept down upon the river, at Washington Square it rose 23 feet above high water mark, swept the bridge away, and down to Artichoke creek, where a church full of people were surrounded so that they had to be taken away in boats.

Washington Square Memorial Park Part of new made land when Little River culvert was extended from the street line to the water line in 1883. Passed to control of Park Commissioners in 1890.

LAKES AND WATER SUPPLIES

Millvale Reservoir: An artificial lake, formed by a cement dam at east Haverhill to conserve the watershed from Whittier's Birthplace east to supplement the natural water supply of the City. This water is pumped into Kenoza Lake and supplies the high pressure service of the City. There are other pumping stations on the shore of Kenoza Lake and the shore of Johnson's Pond in Bradford, which furnish a most ample supply of pure water.

Lake Saltonstall, formerly called Plug Pond: Kenoza Avenue, Mill Street and Saltonstall Avenue, originally Ayer's Pond and containing two floating islands that have since become part of the mainland through the continued growth of vegetation, which anchored these islands after years of voyaging. Nearby is the home of the late Justice William H. Moody of the U. S. Supreme Court, who was also for a time Secretary of the Navy and Attorney General, and author of the now famous phrase of "Immunity Bath" in trust prosecutions, and the home of the late Thomas Sanders, a most benevolent but eccentric man whose early faith in the telephone not only made him a millionaire though he died comparatively poor, but also a most valuable ally to Prof. Bell, the inventor, in his early struggles to finance the greatest invention of the age.

Lake Pentucket, formerly called Round or Little Pond: Lawrence Street, (take Merrimac Car to Lawrence Street or Main Street car to Columbia Park) now the source of Haverhill's ice supply, originally Belnap's Pond, a sheet of water of about 80 acres, now surrounded by some of the most beautiful residences in Haverhill. Its supply of water comes entirely from subterranean springs, not a single creek or brook emptying into it.

Kenoza Lake: (Formerly Great Pond) on Kenoza Avenue at Winnemennie Park, a sheet of water of 300 acres and the main source of Haverhill's water supply. The name Kenoza signifies "pickerel" with which the pond is almost alive as it has been closed to fishing for years.

Crystal Lake: West Parish, one of the clearest sheets of water in New England, whose shores present some really wonderful scenery.

Johnson's Pond: Bradford District, North Andover Road. Take Groveland cars to Parker's Corner and walk West. The main source of Bradford water supply. A beautiful sheet of water lying among gradually sloping hills and prosperous farms with a well equipped pumping station on the Northern shore.

Chadwick's Pond: From the road to North Andover from Parker's Corner, Groveland.

HISTORIC CEMETERIES.

Pentucket Cemetery: At Water and Mill Street, once the heart of the town, and the scene of the first meeting house, the first ferry, the first distillery, the first sail loft and ship building yard. The victims of the first Indian massacre were here laid to rest in a common grave by survivors too tired with the fight and too exhausted by the heat to dig separate graves, and some of the men and women most prominent in the earliest life of the City. The earliest legible dated head stone is that of Evangeline Ayer who died October 10, 1695, aged 17 years, 4 months and 19 days. Here lie the remains of Alice Ward, wife of the first minister in the town, who died in March 1680 and those of the venerable Pastor himself. Minister Rolfe was killed in the memorable massacre of August 29, 1708 and a crude monument slab to his memory still stands. Here also rest the mortal dust of Hugh Tallant, Erin's Exile who set out the sycamores which gave the Buttonwoods their name and whose fiddle and bow gave the swains and lasses of the town about all the entertainment they had in those early trying days.

Linwood Cemetery: Above Pentucket Cemetery on Mill Street, containing the earliest vaults built in the town and the remains of Haverhill's most noted citizens, laid out in 1845 and one of the most beautiful burying grounds in New England.

Hilldale Cemetery: Hilldale Ave., a later but much used burying ground adjoining which is the now little used "Potter's Field."

West Parish Cemetery: Ayers Village. Bought and originally laid out in 1786, on Creek Road.

Greenwood Cemetery: East Parish laid out in 1785, contains the graves of the Countess De Vipart, and Dr. Elliott, Harriett Livermores early lover.

North Burying Ground West Parish Carleton Street, between Broadway and Lowell Avenue, laid out in 1740. The second Burying ground was on Broadway a short distance east of the brook.

The North Parish Burying Ground, Main Street a mile north of Dustin Square.

THE BIG "FIRE"

Start of the Big Fire of February 21, 1882: Site marked by a tablet on what was what was the Endicott and Arnold Sole factory, on the north side of Washington Street, about half way to the Railroad. This fire wiped out practically every factory from between Washington Square and the Depot and from the bank of the Merrimack River to Granite Street.

Relics in the form of melted packages of tacks can be found in hundreds of Haverhill homes today. The embers of this fire lighted the sky for three nights and water was poured upon it continuously for four to five days.

CLUB LIFE OPEN TO VISITORS.

Club Life in Haverhill is varied and interesting and all club houses are open to visitors who present proper credentials of character to members.

Elks Club, corner of Summer and Newcomb Streets, with guest rooms for members of the order, billiards, pool, dancing floors, stage for theatricals, kitchen and for banquets, and all other accessories of the comfort of visiting members of the Order, formerly the A. A. Sargent Homestead, remodeled at a cost of $70,000.

Pentucket Club, corner of Main and Summer Street: One of the best equipped social clubs in New England where everyone prominent in the Social, business and professional life of the City may be found.

Wachusett Club: Corner of Bridge and Merrimack Street: A social Club that makes for the comfort of those who care little for the Society functions of the City but everything for the intimate association. It is especially pleasant, five billiard, card and reading rooms over-locking the beautiful Merrimack River.

Agawam Club: At 21 Merrimack Street. A Social club for the younger set whose big successes have been in their annual theatricals.

Moose Club: West Street. The home of 1500 members of the Loyal Order of Moose at which all visiting members of the order are welcome.

Odd Fellows Hall: Club and reading rooms on Main Street, near City Hall with pool, reading and lodge rooms. All visiting Odd Fellows welcome.

Labor Temple: Gilman Place, off Washington Square, combining union headquarters with lounging, reading, and writing rooms, where there is always someone to bid visiting union men and women welcome and show them the points of interest in the City.

Boot and Shoe Workers Protective Union: Winter Street, at Portland. Headquarters of the local Independent Unions, with no regularly open club rooms, but with well equipped dance halls, lodge rooms and offices, where some members of the union can always be found to entertain visiting guests. John J. Mullen is custodian.

The Greek Coffee Houses: Locke and Orchard Streets, where a score of restaurants entertain the 3000 Greek residents of the City with native coffee and food, and games of chess, baggammon, etc. and where the visitor is always sure of that hearty hospitality for which this race is noted. To this district many Greeks have brought Greek wives by whom they are raising American families through the Public Schools. Their property holdings are especially large, usually acquired by co-operative buying.

The Lithuanian Club: Have a spacious and well equipped home on River Street where their fellow countrymen visiting the City are assured of a royal welcome. The Polish Societies also meet here.

The L'Orpheon Canadian: St. Jean Building in Lafayette Square, the lodge and club home of the French Canadian residents of the City. Containing club rooms, dance hall, lodge rooms, movie theatre, etc., built on the site of the Jonathan Sargent Homestead, one of the last of the old residences whose timbers were metal work hand forged and for whose family, including Chief Justice Sargent, the first Supreme Justice of the Commonwealth, the Square was originally named. Judge Sargent was first appointed by King George and later re-appointed by President John Adams and was the first predecessor of the present Chief Justice Rugg of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. The hall overlooking this square was originally owned by the father of the late Charles Wingate, pastor of St. John's Church at the northern end of the Square, and its hundreds of house lots, now forming one of the most densely populated districts of the City, were literally sold piece meal to keep this little mission church alive. It finally went down and was sold to the Greeks, while the pastorate was moved to a new location at Sheridan and Main Streets where Rev. Charles Tyler now has a prosperous parish.

Haverhill Yacht Club: Water St., opposite Green. A unique and comfortable home for the boating enthusiasts of the City, said to have one of the most perfect doorways, architecturally, in New England.

Knights of Columbus: A commodious club house on Main Street, just north of City Hall Park, where the James Chase homestead was bought a few years ago and converted into one of the most comfortable club houses in New England.

Grand Army Hall: Court Street, opposite the Police Station. The home of the remaining heroes of the Civil War, The Ladies Auxiliary and the Sons of Veterans, originally built by the late Jonathan Sargent, and sold to Major How Post 47 by his daughter, Mrs. Matthew French, after his death, contains flags and relics of the war, including the sword of Major How. The scene of many a patriotic entertainment. Visiting veterans of all wars always welcome. The Post took its name from Maj. Henry Jackson How, killed June 30, 1862, on the frightful six days fighting before Richmond.

Spanish War Veterans Hall: The old Hook and Ladder House, at the end of Court Street, on Fleet Street. By the City to the heroes of the Spanish American War. Recently remodeled and given over entire to the men of 1898.

The State Armory: The home of the New National Guard, formerly Co. F. M. V. M. and Co. F of the 104th Reg. A. E. F., one of the finest one company armories and drill halls in the State, Kenosza Avenue near Webster Street.

Haverhill Boys' Club: Emerson Street, between Washington Square and Oak Street, built and endowed for the young boys of Haverhill, regardless of race or creed, by Public Subscriptions. Offers all kinds of opportunities for entertainment and education free. Open to the Public daily. One of the best homes of its kind in the country.

FAMOUS BRIDGES.

Haverhill Bridge: Built originally in 1794, without covering, a marvel of strength and graceful lines, later a covering was put on in 1825, but in the meanwhile the bridge was rebuilt in 1808, the present structure was built in 1874, and should be rebuilt now if one judges by the "warning" signs upon it.

Merrimac Bridge, also called Rocks Bridge, erected 1828, first bridge erected 1798-1818, at Rocks Village to West Newbury.

County Bridge, road to Holt's Rocks East Parish a short distance east of the Whittier Homestead, laid out in 1665.

Peter's Ridge: named for Haverhill's first slave, "Black Peter" East Parish.

Groveland Bridge: A comparatively modern structure, connecting Haverhill from the junction of Groveland street and Lincoln Ave, with the town of Groveland.

Railroad Bridge, first erected 1833 and restored several times since, the last time, in 1920, when one of the most modern under hung bridges in the world, and the second of its kind in the world, was put in place, without interruption of traffic.

The County Bridge, erected in 1808, mainly through the efforts of the late Sen. Carleton F. How, connecting Haverhill, junction of River and Washington Street with Bradford District.
